DODD, MEAD & COMPANY, Publishers, NEW YORK

WE have received the complete "copy" for "THE FAR HORIZON," a novel upon which Lucas Malet has been engaged since the publication of "Sir Richard Calmady," five years ago. "THE FAR HORIZON" is a novel of such unusual power that we wish to bring it before the public under the most favorable circumstances possible.

We have postponed the publication until January 12th, 1907, although we might have issued the book this month. We have done this because we believe that at the latter date there will be fewer novels on the market, and, therefore, "THE FAR HORIZON" will have the uninterrupted attention of the book reading public.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have secured the rights to the English translation of Gorky's novel, "Mother," a story of Russia of to-day. It will first have serial publication in Appleton's Magazine, the first instalment appearing in the Christmas number.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, who have for some years most successfully designed and pushed novelties and books suitable for every season—in fact, for every day in the year, call the attention of the trade to their Valentine line for the coming year. They have again worked along original lines, and the result is that a few days after the samples were shown to the trade the first editions were exhausted. A new lot is in press, but some dilatory dealer will in the end find that other new lots cannot be gotten ready for him if he delays his order too long. Samples will be mailed by the publishers to any who have not yet seen the new line.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on January 5, E. Phillips Oppenheim's new story, "The Malefactor," in which the author is said to employ his wonderful resources to the greatest advantage. The story deals with a nobleman who, on re-entering the world after an imprisonment which he faced chivalrously rather than defend himself at a woman's expense, is involved in some strange events and has a remarkable influence upon the people with whom he is brought into contact. Deceived, brooding over his wrongs, young, wealthy and free, he begins a new life, and the reader is kept in suspense as to what will happen next. Little, Brown & Co., who are the sole American publishers of Mr. Oppenheim's novels, have just reissued in new illustrated editions two of his earlier stories—"Enoch Strone," the story of the eventful career of a masterful man, and "A Sleeping Memory," a story in occultism, with abundant love interest.

DODD, MEAD & Co., as already announced, will publish on January 12 Lucas Malet's long-expected novel, "The Far Horizon." The story has for its central figure a middle-aged bank clerk of Spanish extraction, who, after thirty-five years' service in a London banking house, is retired on a pension. His life has until that time been methodical, and the story begins with a vivid account of his sensations on his first afternoon out of harness when he is making his way through Piccadilly in the height of the gay season. In contrast with the slowly awakening nature of this man, through the force of circumstance, there is the buoyancy, the youthful charm, the frank paganism of the heroine, fancifully called "The Lady of the Wind-Swept Dust." The actual setting of the story goes no further afield than a green in Chiswick, a common near Ranelagh or a street in Old Kensington, but the way in which the essential hue and physical atmosphere of London are made palpable, and something, too, of its inner spirit and many moods, is a tribute to the author's skill and sentiment. The story is long, but its craftsmanship has been almost enthusiastically praised by the English reviewer. Indeed, the book has led all others in the English market during November and December. There can be little doubt that it will also turn out to be one of the noteworthy books of next year in this country.

From January 1, 1907, the subscription price of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will be $4 per year, and the price of single numbers (special issues excepted) 10 cents per copy.

Lafcadio Hearn, the author of many stories and sketches chiefly of Japan, died in 1904. His life was interesting and romantic in the extreme. Born of Greek and Irish parentage in the Ionian Islands, with an added strain of gypsy blood, he was all his life a wanderer. During the fourteen years before his death he lived in Japan as a citizen of that country. He enjoyed the friendship of some of the most interesting personages of his time, his extended correspondence, which takes up a large part of the work, telling the story of his life, at least for a period of thirty-five years. There is also a fragment of an autobiography, which brings the story of his inner life down to the points at which the correspondence begins. His biographer, the author of several works of travel and belles-lettres, knew Hearn for nearly thirty years. The volumes are illustrated with portraits of Hearn, his family and friends, with pictures of his home and haunts in Japan, and facsimiles of his handwriting, etc.

First the leading theories and facts of its history as seen in the customs of the Indians, the aboriginal Australians, the Romans and Greeks, the Slavs and Anglo-Saxons are examined; then follows an analysis and description of the modern family as a whole and in its constituent parts. Special consideration is given throughout to conditions in England. Author advocates no advanced theories, but urges the development of family life along natural lines.

By the author of "Across widest America." Laurenboro, a Canadian city, with a population more than half Catholic, but without a Catholic library, is the scene of the story. Father Sinclair, a great worker and organizer, is sent here as pastor of St. Paul's, and at once begins to create an interest in his scheme of opening a Catholic library. The story revolves on this plan entirely. It is told how Father Sinclair creates a public interest, the means by which money is raised, etc. Silas Maglundy is a wealthy but eccentric old man, nominally a Catholic, but doing very little for his church. How he is successfully trained in the way he ought to go, and becomes the chief support of the library scheme, is well told.

Designed for literary amusement. Its purpose is explained in an introductory "to the puzzled reader," which says: "Each number composing this collection of misquotations is formed by welding two selections into one. The task set the reader is to separate these parts, and with the aid of a good memory—perchance assisted by a book of quotations—to assign the rightful author to each." Index of authors. Framed in green lines, the text in black.
- Dinsmore, Rev. C: Allen. Atonement in literature and life. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. c. 18+250 p. O. cl., $1.50 net.
Mr. Dinsmore is the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Waterbury, Ct., and a well-known Dante scholar, being the author of "The teachings of Dante" and "Aids to the study of Dante." This work is an original approach to the doctrine of the atonement through literature, rather than through the scriptures. Mr. Dinsmore assumes that divine forgiveness is analogous to human forgiveness. He offers, in a series of chapters, studies of principles upon which reconciliation has been treated by the Greek masters, by Dante, and by Shakespeare (in his reconciliation with life); and the different phases of reconciliation as they appear in Job, Tennyson, George Eliot, Hawthorne, Whitman, and other standard writers.

A novel adapted from the play of the same name written by E: Milton Royle, in which William Faversham, the well-known actor, has "starred" for a long period. His wife has made the present adaptation. The illustrations are reproduced from photographs of scenes in the play. The plot turns upon a sacrifice a young Englishwoman makes for a cousin. He leaves England secretly, letting it be thought that he is the embezzler of a trust fund to which he and his cousin alone have access. He travels to America under a new name and settles in the far west. Scenes follow of rough ranch life, the hero's good name, of course, being finally cleared.

Ephraim Mose Lilien was born in 1874 in a little village in Galicia; he was the son of poor Jewish parents unable to give him an ordinary education; he was apprenticed to a sign painter, and gradually began to earn money enough to pay his way. He studied art in Cracow, and afterwards in Munich, but was hampered at the latter place by lack of funds. He slowly developed his own original artistic nature, and is at the present time in Berlin, where "he is recognized and admired as a man who turned art into a new channel, who delivered a national message by means of form." His drawings have won him a place easily in the forefront of modern illustration. Many examples are given of his work in this appreciation. Mr. Levussove has been for a number of years an instructor in the art department of the College of the City of New York.

Walsh, Julia C. Tooralladdy. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1907, [1906.] c. '07. 4-158 p. il. S. cl., 45 c.

The small boy, who goes by the name of "Tooralladdy" among his companions, lives in an obscure street of a western city. The neighbors, both poor and rich, take an interest in him. Father Bacon, the parish priest, finds him a home when his parents die, and the rich senator, living in the best part of the street, starts him in the way of obtaining a good education. The chief event of the little story is a murder committed by a young Italian, against whom "Tooralladdy" is the chief witness. For young Catholic readers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 22, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE TRADE COMBINATION DECISION IN THE DRUG CASES.

THE opinion of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, written by Judge Archbald, is one of the strongest, as it is one of the clearest statements of the law regarding trade combinations that have been made. For technical reasons the Circuit Court directs a re-trial in the lower court, which would we presume intervene before appeal to the United States Supreme Court, if that is to be taken, would make final determination of the law. As the opinion stands it bids fair to be the controlling decision in the leading case, and as such it is to be considered in its relations with booktrade reform and other endeavors to obtain uniformity in prices.

The pith of the decision is that while the proprietor of a proprietary medicine, which may be taken to read a copyrighted book, is entitled to sell to whom he pleases and to require that the price on his article shall be maintained as he has fixed it, an opinion with which the Brooklyn decision is quite in line, it is a violation of the Sherman Act, and, therefore, contrary to law, for him to enter into combination through which to punish dealers who break the prices fixed by other dealers on their articles. A may sell to B and break off relations with him if B fails to maintain A's prices; but A cannot lawfully enter into a combination because of which he declines to sell to B because B has cut the prices on C's articles. It is not the individual act, whatever it may be, to control prices that is contrary to law, but the combination to that end.

Judge Archbald states the reasons given for maintaining prices with such clearness and force that one may almost read between the lines that the court is not altogether in sympathy with the law, in its extreme, which it is constrained to apply and enforce. So high an authority as the President of the United States has, indeed, come to see that some combinations may serve a public purpose while others are illegitimate and against public policy. This may lead to amendment of the existing law in the future, but it does not bear upon the present status.

One feature of the opinion indicates in the drug trade the same relations which exist in the book trade between copyright and non-copyright books. The American Publishers' Association undoubtedly made a mistake, as the Retail Druggists' Association made a mistake, in attempting to restrict the sale of non-copyright books to dealers who had failed to maintain the prices on copyright books. From that mistaken position the American Publishers' Association receded some time ago. It has not gone so far as the associations in the drug trade in providing for the discipline of "aggressive cutters." But the Philadelphia decision raises very serious questions as to the present method of booktrade reform, and may result in changing the function of the American Publishers' Association and leaving to individual publishers the control of prices on their respective copyright books. To make direct application, the maintenance of prices on copyright books in the booktrade may be done entirely within the law by each publisher acting for himself. Should the Philadelphia decision be construed to apply to the circumstances of the booktrade associations, this could not be done through combination. All that is needed, therefore, at the most, is backbone on the part of individual publishers of the first rank, without reference to what the weaker and lesser brethren may be doing. If a retailer finds that he cannot obtain the books of a half dozen houses which we might mention, because of their individual determination to maintain the publication price, the retailer will not find it to his advantage to enroll himself in the ranks of the undersellers. The situation is clearly, after all is said, in the hands of the leading houses of the trade, and if each continues to act in the fair commercial spirit of upholding a fair price, the betterment of the condition of the booktrade may progress without interruption.

THE DRUG COMBINATION DECISION.

We give in full below, (omitting an unimportant introductory paragraph,) the decision in the case brought before Circuit Judges Dallas and Gray and District Judge Archbald in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, by certain Philadelphia undersellers against members of an association of wholesale and retail druggists who combined to compel the plaintiffs to maintain uniform prices. The decision was written by District Judge Archbald:

... The action is for damages, under the Act of Congress of July 2, 1890, 26 Stats. 209 c. 647, commonly known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, the defendants being charged with having entered into an unlawful combination injurious to the plaintiff within its terms. The sections which obtain are given in the margin.* The drug trade is the one affected, the plaintiff being a retail dealer doing business in Philadelphia, and the defendants variously engaged as wholesale or retail druggists or manufacturers of patent medicines and pharmaceutical supplies. The plaintiff is the subject of trade animosity because he does not maintain the price of their medicines, as the defendants think he ought to, and as they have agreed among themselves that they shall be. He is what is known as an "aggressive cutter," against whom and others similarly actuated the acts complained of are directed.

That which is charged to be a combination in violation of the Act, consists primarily in what is known as the Tripartite plan, so called because of its being entered into by the three affiliated associations in the drug trade—the Proprietary Association of America, the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and the National Association of Retail Druggists—of one or the other of which the defendants are members. The purpose was to maintain the retail prices of patent or proprietary medicines by combined action, which was recognized as necessary to accomplish it. These medicines being compounded according to secret formulæ by those who originate them, are made popular by extensive advertising, and are supposed to be retailed to the consumer at uniform prices, fixed by the proprietors and named on the package. In some parts of the country this is carried out. But in others, and particularly in the large cities, where competition is keen, there has for a long time been a cutting of prices by the retailer, which has reacted on the jobber or wholesaler, as well as the proprietary, demoralizing all branches of the trade. This condition was the subject of extended discussion and animadversion for a number of years at various meetings of the several associations involved, different means for remedying it being proposed. The plan finally formulated was adopted upon an overture from the retailers, at the annual meeting of the wholesalers, at Chicago, in September, 1900, in which the proprietors as associate members participated. It seems to have had its inception in a resolution passed at the preceding annual meeting of the wholesalers, in conformity to which the chairman of the proprietary committee, and the chairman of the executive committee of the retailers, sent out in March, 1900, a confidential circular in the joint names of the two associations to various patent medicine proprietors, urging them for the future to confine their best price sales to a uniform list of jobbers to be selected as wholesale agents. A number of prominent proprietors, who had already agreed to the proposed policy, was given, and in order to make it effective it was urged that each should send out to his wholesale distributing agents a printed price list, giving the regular rebates on goods when ordered in certain quantities, to be restricted however to those who did not divide quantities with others or quote or sell these preparations, either directly or indirectly, or permit them to be disposed of in any way, at less than the prices stated. Favorable responses were received to these circulars, but at the suggestion of members of the retail trade, as well as in pursuance of views expressed by a large percentage of the jobbers, it was decided that the selection of the list of wholesale agents, to whom alone best price sales should be made, should be subject to certain conditions: 1. That jobbers through their salesmen should refrain from running down proprietary goods, and should sell whatever was called for by the customer without reference to any particular article happening to pay a higher profit. 2. That they ask no further discounts than already allowed. 3. That each jobber discontinue his so-called non-secret department (referring to substitute preparations offered in place of proprietary medicines called for); and 4. That they refrain from selling proprietary preparations at any price, either directly or indirectly, to aggressive cutters or brokers; an aggressive cutter being defined as a dealer who was so designated by seventy-five per cent. of the local trade at any given place. The plan so recommended was adopted, not only, as already stated, by the National Wholesalers' Association, but by the proprietors and retailers as well, and became the so-called Tripartite agreement in suit. To be successful, it required the adherence and concerted action of the members of each association, and this was secured by direct appeal

* Sec. 1. Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade, or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in such combination or conspiracy shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both, said punishments in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 2. Every person who shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize or combine or conspire with any other person or persons, to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both, said punishments in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 7. Any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act may sue therefor in any Circuit Court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides, or is found, without respect to the amount in controversy and shall recover three-fold the damages by him sustained, and the costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee.

and individual assent. As a result of it the proprietors sold only thereafter, at uniform fixed prices, to those wholesalers and jobbers who agreed to maintain prices and not sell to aggressive cutters and brokers, the recognized list of such jobbers being furnished to the proprietors by the chairman of the proprietary committee of the wholesalers, and the list of aggressive cutters, as reported by local associations of retailers, whose organizers investigated the matter, being made up and sent out to jobbers and proprietors by the secretary of the National Retailers. If a wholesaler failed to regard this list and sold to an aggressive cutter, he was promptly reported, and his name added to it. A pink slip was also sent out to all retail druggists who were members of the Retailers' Association, calling attention to the fact, and insinuating that such individual action be taken by each, protective of his own interest, as might seem advisable, a cessation of dealing being plainly intimated. And this was followed, in cases of a correction of his ways by the wholesaler and his reinstatement, by a yellow slip, announcing that he was entitled to the same favorable consideration as before.

Notwithstanding, however, the seemingly drastic character of these provisions, the aggressive cutter having still a certain margin on which to trade if not thrive, at the annual convention of the National Retailers' Association at Cleveland, in 1902, it was resolved: "That . . . the secretary be instructed to request all manufacturers of chemicals, pharmaceuticals, plasters, dressings and like products handled by the drug trade, to desist from selling to aggressive cutters, or suppliers of cutters, when solicited to do so by the respective local associations; and that the retail druggists shall be made acquainted with the responses to such requests, in such manner as the executive committee may deem best." This is the so-called "Resolution C" to be referred to more fully by that name as we proceed. Under the date of November 6 following the national secretary accordingly addressed a circular letter to each of the manufacturers indicated, propounding the question whether, when specifically requested by local associations of retail druggists, throughout the country, affiliated with the National Retailers' Association, they would refuse all sales to those parties whom the various manufacturers of proprietaries had designated as aggressive cutters. To this appeal a large majority of the manufacturers made favorable reply. But others having failed to do so, a second circular was issued, May 1, 1903, again calling attention to the matter, and notifying the parties addressed, that there would be published in the official paper of the National Association, called Notes, a list of those who acquiesced and those who did not, requesting definite answer as before. "It is believed," as it is significantly said in closing, "that a little reflection will convince you of the desirability of co-operating with the secretary of the N. A. R. D. in the discharge of the important duty that has been laid upon him." The second circular brought in a large number not secured by the first, the names of several of the defendants being found in the published list. The resolution, under which this action was taken, did not suggest the specific use which was expected to be made of the information conveyed by the publication; but several who had given in their adherence to the plan, having fallen by the way, an honor roll was proposed later on, which should contain the names of those wholesale druggists and jobbers who refused—in the words of the committee—"to have any business dealings whatever with unfair price-demoralizers," to be made up according as favorable response was made to the circular, and to be published the same as the other in the N. A. R. D. Notes." In this connection, in the issue of January 22, 1904, the following assurance was given, anticipating somewhat the argument of counsel: "There is no federal or state law that can possibly be construed in such a way as to compel any jobber to sell goods he has bought and paid for to any person or persons he does not want to. This is a free country . . . where freedom of trade within its borders is guaranteed by constitutional provisions, and each wholesaler has an inalienable right to frame for himself a selling policy in accord with his own ideas of what is best for his individual interest and the trade at large, and then to adopt and put this policy into effect."

There were other and further suggestions, from time to time, for concerted action against price cutters, in line with what has been so referred to; such as requiring salesmen to have cards of identification and regularity; providing for the advancing and making uniform National Association of Retail Druggists, the price for prescriptions; having proprietors refuse to patronize newspapers where cut prices were advertised; and doing away with the necessity for a special request from local retail associations, in order to have wholesalers refuse to sell to aggressive cutters; all, except perhaps the last, emanating from and being advocated by the National Retailers Association. But it is not necessary to follow the matter further. Sufficient has been given to show the character of the combination in restraint of trade, which is charged; and the only question is as to the law which is to be applied. It is contended on the one hand, that no unlawful combination is made out, the manufacturers of proprietary goods having the right to decide, each for himself as was done, to whom and upon what terms and conditions he would sell, or whether he would sell at all, it making no difference, provided his policy in this regard was individual, whether it coincided with a similar policy adopted by others of the same class or not, nor that the action, so taken, was to that extent concerted. The Tripartite agreement, to which alone the proprietors subscribed, was not, according to this, unlawful; and as to anything after that, to which they did not agree, or which they did not recognize or subscribe to, such as the so-called Resolution c with its Honor Roll and White List, got up by the Secretary of the Retailers, on his own motion, under it, they are not answerable; and these were therefore improperly admitted in evidence against them. It is argued on the other hand, that the combination and conspiracy, for which action is brought, is not to be limited to the Tripartite agreement, or the sale of proprietary medicines to which it related, which was however, unquestionably, an unlawful restraint of trade, within the meaning of the act. But that it is to be taken as extending to everything which was done concertedly to carry out the pervading idea, to which the defendants individually and collectively subscribed, which was to cripple and drive out of business, by coercive measures, such cutters of prices as seventy-five per cent. of the local trade, at any given place declared obnoxious. This, it is claimed, was the real conspiracy, of which the various steps taken were merely manifestations or overt acts, including "Resolution C," the Roll of Honor list, etc.; all of which were, therefore, admissible against the defendants generally.

Both contentions are right to a certain extent. Neither can be sustained in its entirety. Undoubtedly the originator and compounder of a proprietary medicine may shape his own policy and sell or withhold from selling as he pleases, according to supposed self-interest or whim, fixing the prices and naming the terms and conditions at and upon which alone he will do so, refusing to those who will not comply. And so far as this is confined to his own goods, and pursued by independent and individual action, it cannot be challenged. It is quite a different matter, however, when two or more combine and agree, that neither will sell to anyone who cuts the prices of any of the others. This concerted policy, by which it is sought not only to maintain by each the price of his own medicines, which alone he is interested in or has the right to control, but also the prices on those of all who are thus banded together, is manifestly a direct interference with and restraint upon the freedom of trade, which in commerce between the States it was the object of the act of Congress to preserve. As in every conspiracy, it is the joining together of a number that counts, and that the individual has to fear. It is true that a common plan or policy does not necessarily mean a combined one. The individual manufacturer or proprietor may be persuaded, for example, that the retailer or jobber who cuts the medicines of his neighbor to-day, will likely cut his medicine to-morrow, and so decide not to sell him. And it will not make out a conspiracy that others are of the same mind. If that was all there was to the present case, it would be easily disposed of. But, unfortunately for the defendants, it is not. The policy adopted and pursued with respect to aggressive cutters and those who sold to them was not that of the proprietors only, acting independently, each with the regard to his own, according to what seemed to him good. The arrangement was Tripartite, in which all the affiliated associations of the drug trade were involved, proprietors, wholesale distributing agents or jobbers, and retailers, the latter, if anything dominating it, evolved after extended agitation, discussion and conference, to which the members were individually and collectively bound, disciplinary and coercive measures being provided against any who proved recalcitrant. Let a patent medicine man or wholesaler disregard its terms and he was quickly given to understand, that if he catered to the aggressive cutters he could not expect the custom of the organized retailers, between whom it did not usually take him long to decide. He became, if he persisted, an unfair trader, to be treated accordingly, until he repented and was reinstated, after acknowledging the error of his ways and agreeing to transgress no more. Against this discipline, and with this rod held over them, it is needless to say that there were few who went astray, and still fewer who held out. There was, perhaps, a murmur here and there, a question raised as to whether they might not overstep the law, and a recognition that they were close to the line. But it was met by assurances such as that quoted above, or by suggestions of escape by individual action, which can hardly be expected to deceive. Nor did, indeed, the individual proprietor control his own prices, nor determine to whom his goods should go. This was done for him in the cities by the local associations of retail druggists, into whose hands he thus committed himself. The prices which should there prevail were of their naming, and aggressive cutters were those who did not maintain them, who were ferreted out and reported by the retailers' agents. All this and more was part and parcel of the Tripartite plan, to which the proprietary, as well as the wholesaler, bound himself when he entered into it.

If co-operation and concerted action such as this does not make out a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade, it is difficult to see what would be effective to do so. The combination is clear and has been demonstrated. So also is the restraint of trade. That, indeed, was the avowed purpose of it, which was not simply to put the aggressive cutter out of business, but to maintain prices to the consumer by this means, as they would not be maintained if left to themselves. It seems incredible, except as the trade in patent medicines is known to be immense, but it is confidently asserted by those having the right to speak that the cost to the country of the Tripartite agreement amounted to $90,000,000 in six years. The general public, as usual, have thus been made to foot the bill. That this constitutes in law, as in fact, an unlawful combination in restraint of trade, within the meaning of the act, there can be no doubt, whatever may be decided elsewhere, the question is set at rest by Addyston Pipe Co. v. U. S., 175 U. S. 211, and Montague v. Lowry, 193 U. S. 38, which control. In the former there was a combination among certain manufacturers of cast iron pipe, controlling two-thirds of the business in States of the South and West, by which they agreed to advance the prices to the consumer, by abolishing competition between them, parcelling out the territory and fixing the prices at which sales should be made therein, going through the form of bidding against each other at times, as a blind, the prices and the successful bidder in each case being prearranged. It was nought to defend this action, because the restraint was only partial, not extending to the whole United States. Also that the monopoly secured was not complete, being tempered by fear of competition from others not in the arrangement, and affecting only a modicum of the price. And again, that the prices fixed were reasonable and within those which were being continually and unrestrainedly made, simply doing away with ruinous competition, in which the parties had a right. But these and other arguments were put aside, and the case declared to be one prohibited by the act. "It is the effect of the combination," says the Court, "in limiting and restricting the right of each of the members to transact business in the ordinary way, as well as its effect upon the volume or extent of the dealings in the commodity, that is to be regarded." So in Montague v. Lowry, by an agreement between Eastern manufacturers of tiles and certain dealers in San Francisco and vicinity, an association was formed whose by-laws provided, that no manufacturer should sell to any dealer not a member, nor should any dealer sell to the same except at certain list prices, which were fifty per cent. higher than those at which sales were made to other members; membership also being confined to those who carried an average stock of not less than $3000 and who were acceptable. The plaintiffs were dealers in San Francisco where they had built up a business, but were not members of the association and were not eligible. And after its formation they found themselves unable to buy to advantage, being restricted to dealing with San Francisco parties, to whom they were compelled to pay the extra prices listed. On a suit against the association for damages under the act, a verdict for the plaintiff was sustained, the case being held to be clear. It is useless in the face of these authorities to urge upon the decision in Park v. National Druggists' Association, 175 N. Y. 1, where a different conclusion has apparently been reached. It is to be noted, however, with regard to that case, that the agreement there, as viewed by the majority of the court, was merely to sell to all wholesale distributing agents at uniform rebate prices, so that the small dealer with limited capital was put on a par with the large ones whose capital was more ample, thus tending to fairness and equality, on which stress is laid. There was, however, the further provision (to say nothing of other restrictions) that until a wholesaler agreed to the plan he could not buy of any member of the association whatever; in view of which three of the judges dissented; the case being still further weakened as an authority, by the failure of the majority to altogether agree in their reasoning. At the best, therefore, it is near the line, and in no event can it be taken, contrary to the cases cited, as giving the law here.

So far then as the present case was kept within the limits indicated by these observations, it was correctly disposed of and is to be sustained. But outside of them not. Unfortunately it did not stop with the Tripartite agreement, and the action taken under it, but went on to Resolution C with its honor roll and white list. It is urged that these were merely further steps in the general combination and conspiracy, to get rid of the aggressive cutter, on which all were determined, and for which therefore by whomsoever taken all were bound. But this fails to note several things, speaking broadly no doubt there was a general purpose, or conspiracy if you will, to drive the plaintiff and others like him out of business, to which in entering into the Tripartite agreement the parties committed themselves. At the same time, however, there was a selection of methods. Not only was a general policy declared for, but a definite line of action under it adopted after extended consideration and conference, which could not be varied from at will. In accepting the Tripartite plan, they did not necessarily agree to anything and everything which might be done in its name, and particularly not to Resolution C, which was recognized as a new and decidedly advanced step, expected to work a radical change. As already stated, this project emanated from the National Retail Druggists' Association, in annual convention assembled at Cleveland in 1902. But even among the retailers there were those who doubted the propriety as well as the legality of it, as witness the remarks of the president, at the annual meeting just before that, at which, having been proposed, it was promptly voted down. Nor was it ever adopted by the proprietors or the wholesalers as a body, the only assent given to it being individual, and by no means by all. This was secured by direct appeal, and the circulars sent out were addressed to "manufacturers and dealers in Non-Tripartite goods," showing that a different class was intended to be reached.

No connection except the most general one is thus established between the Tripartite agreement and Resolution C, and they are not to be taken as one and the same plan. They may not differ much in principle, but they do decidedly in results, pressure being put upon the aggressive cutter as it had not been by any means before. By the one he was merely deprived of patent medicines, as to which, right or wrong, the proprietor might feel that he had a certain freedom to sell or withhold, the same as is argued here. But by the other he was cut off from the most ordinary druggists' supplies, even tooth brushes and sponges being denied. A retailer cannot do much, it is true, without proprietary goods on his shelves; but without drugs and pharmaceuticals he cannot put up a single prescription and might as well go out of business, and that indeed was what Resolution C was designed to bring about. This was an excursion into a new field, and to whatever else short of that the proprietor or wholesaler was committed, he might not care to go that far. He was at least entitled to have it distinctly presented for his acceptance, before being bound, and his assent is not to be implied simply because he had agreed to what had gone before. He did not put himself indiscriminately and to all lengths into the hands of his associates. The trade recognized that this was the case, and that there were classes among the wholesalers, as shown by the publication called Notes of May 21, 1904, where those operating under the Tripartite agreement are set apart from those operating under Resolution C. This may not be conclusive, but it is significant, and confirms as it corresponds with our views.

As distinguished by parties also, the combination was new. No doubt there were many who had agreed to the Tripartite plan, who also agreed to Resolution C. But there were some who did not, who are defendants here, as well as some who agreed to the resolution alone. They divide on these lines and cannot be brought together as one; and neither, as the result, can a joint action be maintained. As the case stands, however, all are made liable without distinction, for all that has been done, both under the Tripartite agreement as well as Resolution C, both being put in evidence against them all. It may be that a person who joins a conspiracy at an advanced stage of it makes himself party to what has been done in pursuance of it before, 3 Gr. Ev. Sect. 93, Lewis' Ed. 8 Cycl. Law & Prac. 658. But this must be with knowledge, and in promotion of the common cause. And even though, upon this basis, those wholesalers who with knowledge of the existing purpose to drive aggressive cutters out of business, lent themselves to this design by denying him their goods as called for by Resolution C, could be held for the damages resulting from the whole scheme; still, as already pointed out, there is too wide a divergence between the original Tripartite plan and this later extreme development of it to make those who merely agreed to the one committed irretrievably and without question to both.

Upon the whole case, therefore, we reach the conclusion that Resolution C was inadmissible to charge those who had not assented to it and should not have been received in evidence, nor anything done under it. The wrong which was committed by its adoption and enforcement was separate and distinct from that which resulted from entering into and carrying out the Tripartite plan, as were also the damages experienced therefrom. The plaintiff in this respect pressed his case too far. He had a good one against some of the defendants under the Tripartite agreement, and another against others under Resolution C; and against some, no doubt, upon both. But not against all. And there was the mistake. A joint tort being charged, not only had it to be proved as laid, Howard v. Union Traction Co. 195 Pa. 391, Wiest v. Traction Co. 200 Pa. 149, Rowland v. Philadelphia 202 Pa. 50; but the defendants had all to be liable for all that was resolved upon or done. This in the view we take of it was not the case, and the judgment must therefore be reversed also upon this ground. This reversal is general and applies to all the defendants, which renders it unnecessary to consider the special argument which was made for some. It will be for the trial judge, when the case comes up again, to determine, in the light of what has been said, how far they and others can be held.

Judgment reversed and a new trial awarded.

COSTLY SHELLEY NOTE BOOKS.

At the sale of the library of the late Dr. Garnett three note books that formerly belonged to the poet Shelley, containing interesting autographic manuscript matter, most of it never published, were bought by Stevens & Brown, for $15,000.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD DENOUNCES THE COPYRIGHT BILL.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD, the well-known Philadelphia publisher, has addressed an open letter to the Register of Copyrights, asking him, inasmuch as Mr. Baird is unable, owing to ill health, to appear before the Committee on Patents, to present Mr. Baird's argument against the proposed Copyright Bill, (Senate Bill 6330.)

Omitting the introduction we quote Mr. Baird's argument in full as follows:

HOW THE SUBJECT OF COPYRIGHT SHOULD BE APPROACHED.

In approaching the subject of copyright for discussion or for legislation, the primary, fundamental fact which must first, last and all the time be recognized is that on the mere claim of an applicant that he is the author or proprietor of the thing to be copyrighted, the Government grants a certificate, thus giving him a prima-facie title, and thereby throwing the onus of proof on every defendant. This is the only species of property to which the general government, or any State government, grants a certificate of title on the mere demand of the claimant without proof or even without affidavit.

HOW DIFFERENT THE PATENT LAWS!

Let me illustrate this by a case of recent occurrence. Some parties in Pennsylvania spent thousands of dollars in an attempt to produce an alloy, two of the constituents of which were nickel and copper. When the process was complete and apparently a success, application was made for a patent. This application was promptly rejected for the reason that a similar alloy was described in a certain book, "The Metallic Alloys," published in Philadelphia in 1896. This caused consternation, and the editor of the book was employed to investigate the source of his facts on this alloy, which he did, and nothing has recently been heard of this great discovery. Had the patent laws been of the loose, unjust, inequitable character of the copyright laws, the patent would have been issued promptly, and the burden of proof in any action for violation of the patent would have fallen on the defendants, who, under the proposed law, would have been served with notice of injunction and subjected to an action for damages, and even been "punished by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1000, or both, in the discretion of the court," as provided for in this infamous bill S6330, unless he could lay his hands on the volume "The Metallic Alloys," and there find described the alloy in question.

Let any self-appointed clique bring before Congress an act to amend the patent laws in the direction of Senate Bill 6330, and see where they and their scheme will land. And this would be just as reasonable as the bill now in the hands of the Committee on Patents.

PAINS AND PENALTIES OF THIS BILL UNJUST.

It is respectfully submitted that the pains and penalties provided for in the bill under discussion are absolutely unjust and iniquitous when it is considered in what manner these copyrights are granted by the United States Government; and the very idea of imprisonment for the violation of a title so easily obtained without proof is repugnant to every feeling of humanity. Such punishment is only worthy of an absolute government, but is quite unworthy of a free government like ours.

ABSURDITY OF GRANTING COPYRIGHT FOR FIFTY YEARS AFTER DEATH OF AUTHOR.

How absurd is the provision for granting copyright for fifty years after the death of an author, is evident from the fact that there are not more than two great books which have survived their authors this length of time. These books are Webster's "Dictionary" and Wood and Bache's "U. S. Dispensatory," and these have only survived because they have been revised far beyond any idea entertained by their authors. In addition to these two books there are probably a score of authors whose works are still alive, my reference being to American books alone.

MOST AMERICAN BOOKS ARE DEAD AND FORGOTTEN WITHIN A YEAR AFTER THEY ARE PUBLISHED, the copyrights on these books not being worth twenty-five cents each, let alone protection for a half-century or more.

CONCESSIONS TO FOREIGN AUTHORS AND PUBLISHERS.

The concessions made by this bill to foreign authors and publishers possessing books in foreign languages, and permitting them to hold these copyrights for two years without the payment of one cent, is only worthy of a little band of idealists who have magnified literary property above and beyond all other property in its sacredness. My own experience is that these foreigners make such extortionate demands for copyright that compliance with these demands is entirely out of the question, they offering something to an American publisher which has no value whatever, except through the labors of a translator and editor, and they demand full copyright as if they were offering something only needing to be put into the hands of the printer. Thus there is no place for a competent American translator and editor. Nearly all German books of which I have obtained any knowledge are the property of the publishers and not of the authors, and they are to be the recipients of the bounty of the United States Government under this proposed act.

INCONGRUITIES AND INJUSTICES OF THE BILL.

But to treat of all the incongruities and injustices of this bill would take more space than is possible on this occasion. A certificate of copyright should not be sufficient in an action at law, but each claimant under it should be made to furnish proof under oath as to how and where he gathered the matter protected by his certificate. All such certificates, when their history is considered, should be under suspicion, and all proof should not be required alone of the defendant in an action.

INJUSTICE TO THE PRINTER.

In conclusion it must be said that to place the printer in such a position that he be liable for damages and for fine when he cannot, in the nature of things, investigate the sources of all of the matter in all books brought to him by authors and publishers to print, as provided for in Section 23 of this bill, is utterly indefensible and atrocious.

Very truly yours,

HENRY CAREY BAIRD.

PHILADELPHIA, December 3RD, 1906.

NOTE, DEC. 5, 1906.—Copyrights should be classified according to the character of the book:

1. For books which may be classified under the general term of Belles-letters, especially works of fiction and poetry, which as a rule may be considered as original with the author.

2. For Scientific and Technical Books, including Medical and Surgical Works, Applied Chemistry, Dictionaries, Encyclopædias, Gazetteers, etc., which in their very nature are more or less compilations—the results of the labors of other men.

Copyrights for books of the second class should be granted for a more limited period than for those of the first class.

In the application for copyright the claimant should be required to specify which portions of the book are original with him as required in an application for a patent. And, finally, why should a copyright be granted for a longer term than the seventeen years granted for a patent?

H. C. B.

DECEMBER 10, 1906.—Since the foregoing note was put in type a document emanating from the Copyright Office, "Amendments Proposed to the Copyright Bill, together with Criticisms and Suggestions," 131 pp., has come to hand. There is, however, but one amendment to this bill in order, and that is to

STRIKE OUT THE ENACTING CLAUSE,

And thus kill the venomous reptile at one blow.

TO PROMOTE FOREIGN TRADE.

A NATIONAL convention for the purpose of considering and devising measures for the enlargement of our foreign trade and to promote the demand abroad for our products and manufactures, will be held in the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., beginning at 10:30 A.M., on Monday, January 14, 1907.

Delegates from all the States, appointed by the Governors, and representatives of all national, State and local associations are expected to be present—thirty-three States have agreed to attend—and the Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of State of the United States, and other prominent men will address the convention.

A consideration of the subject of the extension of our trade abroad should interest every business man, and will probably suggest to those who have studied the problems any number of topics for discussion that should lead to prompt and practical results. Every year American merchants are permitting profitable business to slip through their hands, partly through ignorance and partly through indifference to the usages of the foreign markets, in such simple matters as the proper way of introducing their goods, packing, lack of more intimate knowledge of the language of their foreign customers, as well as in matters of greater weight and importance.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Henry C. Bainbridge and Mr. Stephen Farrelly have been chosen to represent the Stationers' Board of Trade. It is to be hoped that the booktrade will also be represented through delegates of the American Publishers' Association. The Trunk Line Association has conceded a reduction of one-third the regular rate on return tickets.

A CO-OPERATIVE STATIONERY COMPANY.

THE ASSOCIATED STATIONERS COMPANY has recently been incorporated under the laws of the State of New York to establish and conduct a wholesale jobbing and manufacturing stationery business, etc. The amount of the capital stock is stated to be $100,000. The number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist is 1000 shares of the par value of $100 each, and the amount of capital with which said corporation will begin business is $10,000. No more or less than five shares shall be sold to any person or firm.

The following have been elected officers: Edward V. Brokaw, president; Charles C. Talcott, vice-president; John Brewer, treasurer; Clarence M. Smith, secretary.

The following fifteen members, all of New York City, make up the Board of Directors: Edward V. Brokaw, Edward V. Brokaw & Bro., 54 Broad Street; Charles C. Talcott, Wilbur & Hastings, 37 Fulton Street; Charles A. Lent, Brown, Lent & Pett, 33 Maiden Lane; Lucius H. Bigelow, Jr., L. H. Bigelow & Co., 62 Broad Street; John Brewer, H. K. Brewer & Co., 33 Nassau Street; Clarence M. Smith, Smith & Thompson, 23 Beaver Street; Charles A. Udell, 82 Bleecker Street; James L. Clarke, Montross, Clarke & Emmons, 51 Nassau Street; Charles Murray, Gerry & Murray, 51 Broad Street; James J. Moore, Searing & Moore Co., 24 Beaver Street; George W. Schmidt, Corlies, Macy & Co., 441 Pearl Street; Thomas W. Evans, Shipman & Evans, 34 Murray Street; Henry G. Craig, Stewart, Warren & Co., 29 Howard Street; William G. Siegert, 78 Beaver Street, and Aaron Langstadter, 506 Sixth Avenue.

The following circular letter signed by the president, addressed to the trade, explains in part the purpose of the association:

"Your attention is respectfully called to . . . the Associated Stationers Co., incorporated under the laws of the State of New York on the co-operative plan, which has for its officers and directors men who have been identified with the trade for many years, who feel assured that by combination of capital, contracts can be made for supplies at prices considerably less than if purchased individually, and thus enable members to purchase on a more equitable basis.

"To obtain this result it is estimated that at least 200 firms or corporations subscribe for five shares each at $100 par value per share, 10 per cent. to be paid when subscribing, 15 per cent. when the entire capital ($100,000) is subscribed, and 25 per cent. each, 30, 60 and 90 days thereafter. It is proposed to lease suitable quarters, desirably located, from which supplies can be distributed.

"It is believed that the company can be managed very economically; as each member will be interested personally, no salesman will be required and no advertising need be done.

"The unusually large attendance at the meetings and the enthusiasm displayed demonstrates fully the sentiment in the trade that this project offers protection against the injustices so prevalent at the present time. It is hoped the advantages specified above will be so apparent you will have no hesitation in subscribing as a member.

"Mr. A. T. Baxter is authorized to receive your subscription, and will call upon you shortly in reference to same."

While the organization is complete the company has no office as yet. Arrangements, however, are now being perfected to establish headquarters in New York City, on Broadway, near Leonard Street.

THE CANADIAN TARIFF ON BOOKS.

"UNDER the terms of the new Canadian customs tariff," according to the Canadian Book-seller and Stationer, "several changes have been made in the duty on books, which will, generally speaking, be to the advantage of the British publisher. Cloth-bound books came in under the old tariff at 10 per cent., with a preference of a third off on books imported from England. In other words, books of English publishers paid a duty of 6-2-3 per cent. The new tariff, while keeping the general duty at 10 per cent., places the preferential duty at 5 per cent.

"Under the old tariff, text-books for universities, chartered colleges, and normal schools were admitted free, but books for all other schools were dutiable. The new tariff admits all school books and text-books duty free.

"In the item of paper-bound novels and novels in sheets, the general tariff has been increased from 20 to 25 per cent. Under the old preference, the importer paid 13½ per cent., while the new preferential tariff is 15 per cent. This increase is slight compared with the general increase on American paper novels.

"So far as booksellers and the bookbuying public are concerned, the changes will not be felt, except in so far as they may lead to an increase in the importation of British books. Publishers will probably be inclined to import more sheets from England and less from the United States, in order not to diminish their profits more than they can help, while jobbing houses will undoubtedly pay more attention to the British market."

BOOKS IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND DURING NOVEMBER.

ACCORDING to the London Book Monthly the following books were most in demand in England during November:

The Far Horizon, by Lucas Malet.

Sir Nigel, by Sir A. Conan Doyle.

Rosemary in Search of a Father, by C. N. and A. M. Williamson.

Rezánov, by Gertrude Atherton.

The Doctor of Crow's Nest, by Ralph Connor.

Life and Letters of Leslie Stephen, by T. W. Maitland.

Letters of George Birkbeck Hill, arranged by his daughter, Lucy Crump.

Queens of Old Spain, by Martin Hume.

The Sins of Society, by Father Bernard Vaughan.

The Everyman Shakespeare in three volumes.

CAXTON FRAGMENTS FETCH £420.

At Hodgson's Chancery Lane Mart, London, on November 23, was sold the volume containing the fragments of "The Royal Book, or Book for a King," [1484,] "The Book of Good Manners," 1487, and "The Doctrinal of Sapience," 1489, referred to in our issue of December 1. The lot fetched £420. Had any of these mutilated fragments been whole, this price would easily have been quadrupled, as a complete copy of the first-named alone sold for £2225 in 1902.

C. M. ROE MANAGER OF AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOC.

MR. CHARLES M. ROE, for nearly ten years manager of the Chicago Branch House of the American Baptist Publication Society, has been appointed General Business Manager of the Society in place of Mr. M. Strien, resigned, and has accepted the position offered him. He will enter upon his duties January 1, 1907, with headquarters at 1630 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Mr. Roe is the son of the Rev. Charles T. Roe, and the grandson of the Rev. Charles Hill Roe, D.D., both Baptist ministers, and the nephew of Dr. H. C. Mabie, of the Missionary Union.

Mr. Roe was born in Rockton, Ill., October 15, 1869, and was educated in the public schools and at Shurtleff College. He entered the service of the American Baptist Publication Society when seventeen years of age, and occupied various positions until 1897, when he was appointed manager to succeed the Rev. F. G. Thearle, deceased. Mr. Roe is a member of the Centennial Baptist Church, Chicago; a director of the Chicago Baptist Hospital; a member of the Board of the Chicago Baptist City Mission Society, and vice-president of the Chicago Baptist Social Union. The Society is to be congratulated on securing for its General Business Manager a man so well fitted for the position.

Mr. Charles L. Major, who for six years has been Mr. Roe's chief assistant at the Chicago house, has been appointed manager of that house to succeed Mr. Roe.

A HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.

THE NATIONAL HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY was incorporated in New York on December 14, "to perpetuate the history of the United States and the memory of men who have assisted in the establishment and preservation of its great interests; to advance historic research and to sustain interest in the perpetuation of many historic events, men, places and scenes in Colonial and Revolutionary periods of the country."

The incorporators are Edmund R. Luce, 598 St. Mary's Street, Bloomfield, N. J.; Frank J. Barthels, 22 Lexington Street, Montclair, N. J.; Bernard A. Devine, Eighth and Grand Streets, Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. Lucretia V. Jenna, 115 East Thirty-second Street, New York City, and Sarah O. Lund, 129 East 101st Street, New York City.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

NEWSPAPER PROTEST AGAINST COPYRIGHT LAW AFFECTING PHOTOGRAPHS.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION, through its committee on copyright, on December 10 filed with the Senate and the House Committees on Patents a protest against the proposed changes in the law affecting the copyright of photographs. The newspapers which use illustrations consider that the existing law is too severe in its application to them, not requiring sufficient warning of the fact of copyright and punishing too harshly resulting unintentional infringements. The proposed amendment of the law, they say, seems to reduce the requirements of warning as to the fact of copyright and to increase practically the penalties and infringement.

The newspaper contention, as set forth, is that injustice would be done by giving to the mechanical maker of a kodak snapshot the same protection that is given to the author of a literary article or musical composition; by treating the imperfect reproduction or imitation in a newspaper of a copyright photograph as causing every copy of the offending issue to become in the eyes of the law an infringing damage-producing copy of such photograph, subject to the penalty of not less than $1 for every such copy, and to other punishment; and by failing to recognize that newspaper reprints of photographs are not such reproductions as can be substituted in sales for the originals, and that instead of inflicting injury by reducing sales they often tend to advertise and to increase the sales of the original photographs.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN ARMOY KNOX, who was once widely known as the editor of Texas Siftings, and whose humor as a paragraphist gained him a wide reputation throughout this country, died suddenly on December 18 at his home in New York City. He was born in Armo, Ireland, in 1850, and came to this country when a young man in search of health. He settled in Texas and engaged in newspaper work in Austin, finally starting Texas Siftings, which for a number of years had an immense circulation throughout the country. He has been living in New York City since 1896, and has regularly contributed humorous articles to the newspapers and magazines.

JEREMIAH CURTIN, the author, linguist and philologist, well known for his translations of Sienkiewicz's works, died on December 14 at his home in Burlington, Vt. Mr. Curtin was born in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1840, and was graduated from Harvard in 1863. He was appointed secretary of the U. S. Legation in Russia in 1864, and later acting consul general there, serving until 1870. From 1883 to 1891 he was actively engaged in special work for the Smithsonian Institution, visiting many countries and studying their people. He was the author of "Myths and Folk-Tales of Ireland," "Myths and Folk-Tales of the Russians," "Hero Tales of Ireland," "Fairy Tales of Ireland," "Creation Myths of Primitive Americans," "The Mongols," etc. Mr. Curtin is no doubt best known by his translations of "Quo Vadis," and the other of Sienkiewicz's works published by Little, Brown & Co., though he translated a number of other works from the Polish and Russian. It is said that Mr. Curtin was conversant with seventy languages and dialects, and that he spoke fourteen languages as well as he spoke English.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE December Arcna, published by Albert Brandt, of Trenton, N. J., contains among other good material an interesting paper on "William Morris and Esthetic Socialism," by Dr. Thomas Dickinson, and one on "Our Vanishing Liberty of the Press," by Theodore Schroeder.

THE CANTERBURY COMPANY, of Highland Park, Ill., has just published the first number of the first volume of a small magazine entitled Catchwords, each page of which contains an inspiring quotation on friendship by Robert Louis Stevenson, handlettered by Will Dwiggins, and printed in red and black.

FREDERIC L. COLVER, for some years connected with Frank Leslie's and the Colver Publishing Houses and its publications, has acquired a large interest in the Success Magazine. He has been chosen secretary and member of the board of directors of the Success Company, and will on January 1 take active charge of its advertising interests.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

W. G. POWDOIN, 130 Fulton Street, New York City, has just brought out "Jack and Jill Modernized," written by Mr. Bowdoin himself.

DUFFIELD & Co. elsewhere call attention to their line of Calendars for 1907. There are ten of them, each printed in colors, that appeal to almost every taste and fancy.

THE entire block on Fifth Avenue, from Seventieth to Seventy-first Street, running east to Madison Avenue, part of which is occupied by the Lenox Library building, it is reported, has been sold by the trustees of the New York Public Library to Henry C. Frick, formerly of Pittsburg, Pa.

E. BYRNE HACKETT, who has represented Doubleday, Page & Co. on the road and in other capacities, has resigned his position. He will succeed Martin M. Foss in the publishing department of the Baker & Taylor Company, Mr. Foss having associated himself with the publishing department of The Electrical World, etc.

A. WESSELS Co. are republishing this year, with a calendar for 1907, "New York: Historic and Picturesque." The graphic presentation of the most notable spots of the city, as they are to-day compared with what they used to be as shown in the old prints reproduced, makes this a real record of the steady evolution of the metropolis.

THE BANKS LAW PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, announce "The American Lawyer—As He Was—As He Is—As He Can Be," by John R. Dos Passos. The work deals with the various duties of a lawyer to the State, the courts and clients. It also treats of the origin and development of the profession, the nature of the lawyer's vocation, his education and training, and concludes with a chapter upon the causes and remedies for existing evils.

THE Board of Publication and Sabbath-School Work, Philadelphia, at a meeting held on November 27, accepted with deep regret the resignation of the Rev. Charles T. McMullin, who has been the treasurer of the board for nineteen years, and who is obliged to relinquish active work on account of impaired health. At this same meeting Frank M. Braselmann, who for twenty-one years has been connected with the Board and closely associated with Mr. McMullin, was elected to succeed him as treasurer.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just brought out the long-awaited "Life, Letters and Work of Frederic Leighton," by Mrs. Russell Barrington. The work is in two large volumes, and contains a great number of illustrations, chiefly portraits of Lord Leighton and reproductions of some of his most famous pictures. The artist's career is narrated chiefly by means of letters. The book is an admirable picture, not only of the comparatively uneventful outward life, but also of the inner history of the brilliant president of the Royal Academy.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish at once "The Tower of London," by Canon Benham, D.D., with colored plates from illuminated manuscripts, and other illustrations; "Stories of the Italian Artists," from Vasari, arranged and translated by E. L. Seeley, with many illustrations in colors and half-tone; "Vittoria Colonna," with some account of her friends and her times, by Maud F. Jerrold, with photogravures; also, "Westminster Abbey, the King's Craftsmen," a study of mediæval building, by N. R. Lethaby, with sixty illustrations and a portrait of Richard II.

THE one hundredth anniversary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee will be celebrated on January 19, and Doubleday, Page & Company will mark this occasion with a new edition of "The Recollections and Letters of General Robert E. Lee," by his son, Captain Robert E. Lee. Perhaps no book concerning the life of the great Confederate chieftain so adequately makes a measure of his real character as this, because it tells the story of his life in the form of his letters to his wife and children. This book has already passed through seven editions in the United States, and one large edition in England.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD have just published "Health Through Self-Control in Thinking, Breathing and Eating," by William Anthony Spinney, a well-known teacher of physical and mental culture. They have arranged with Edward Stratemeyer to extend his "American Boys' Life of Theodore Roosevelt," published three years ago, by bringing it up to the close of the recent trip to Panama and Porto Rico, and have commissioned Miss Geraldine Brooks to revise and bring up to date "The True Story of the United States," written by her father, the late Elbridge S. Brooks, so well and favorably known as the writer of "True Historical Stories for Young Folks," etc.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish early in January a history of that part of the Civil War which ended with Vicksburg and Gettysburg. It is by James Kendall Hosmer, LL.D., and is so written as to make it a book of unusual value and interest. This will form volume 20 of the American Nation Series, but, like all other volumes of the series, it is complete in itself. They expect to issue at the same time a new novel by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, entitled "By the Light of the Soul." The story is said to be based upon a situation which is strikingly unique in conception, and in carrying it out to its really dramatic conclusion Mrs. Freeman displays all of the skill and insight that have made her work so famous.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just brought out in their popular Hour Glass Series a charming novelette entitled "The Old Darnman," by Charles L. Goodell. The story, which may be read at one sitting, tells in a quaint and appealing style the life of a well-known character of New England. They have also just ready a new novel by John Henderson Miller, entitled "Where the Rainbow Touches the Ground." The story swings around a strong plot. The scene is laid in Missouri, and a cyclone which sweeps the region figures prominently in the book. Mr. Miller, who is a Missouri author of exceptional power, has drawn his sturdy fellow Missourians in picturesque style, and the book brims over with homely philosophy.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just brought out "The Patriot," ("Piccolo Mondo Antico,") the first of the trilogy of Fogazzaro's stories, of which "The Saint" is the third. "The Patriot" has been widely circulated not only in the original but also in French, German and Spanish versions. The story incidentally throws an interesting sidelight on the events of the ten years, so dreary to Italy, between the defeat of Novara, 1849, and the victories of Magenta and of Solferino in 1859; its chief interest, however, lies in the intense humanity of its principal characters, whose innermost souls are laid bare by their own acts. They have also just ready the fourth series of "Shelburne Essays," by Paul Elmer More, who treats of such subjects as "The Vicar of Morwenstow," "Fanny Burney," "A Note on 'Daddy' Crisp," "George Herbert," "John Keats," "Benjamin Franklin," "Charles Lamb Again," "Walt Whitman," "William Blake," "The Letters of Horace Walpole" and "The Theme of Paradise Lost."

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just brought out "Dalton's Complete Bridge," a new word of authority on "bridge" by W. Dalton, the British expert, which gives the new laws of the game as revised by a joint committee of the Portland and Turf clubs. They are bringing out in a new series of children's classics "Robin Hood—his deeds and adventures," selected and illustrated by Lucy Fitch Perkins. They have brought together five series of pictures that are particularly attractive and decorative. These are Pictures of Olden Days, four facsimiles of oil paintings by Anna Whelan Betts; Pictures of Nursery

Rymes, six facsimiles of oil paintings by Ethel Franklin Betts; The Underwood American Girl, When We're Together and Beauty and the Dog, twelve facsimiles of pastels by Clarence E. Underwood. These pictures are also put up in the form of calendars. To meet the popular demand they are publishing a new edition of N. Hudson Moore's capital "Lace Book," at just half the price at which the work was originally brought out.

RALPH FLETCHER SEYMOUR, Chicago, have two books of great interest in "Fruits of Solitude in Reflections and Maxims Relating to the Conduct of Human Life," by William Penn; and "Songs of Innocence and of Experience, Showing the Two Contrary States of the Human Soul," by William Blake. A peculiar interest attaches to the personality of William Penn. His sincerity and nobility of character are well displayed in these reflections, carefully edited by the great Quaker and dedicated to the reader. This edition, limited to 400 copies, is somewhat abridged from the original and is printed in red and black throughout, with rules, initials and decorations. The book appears in paper copies and in Japan vellum, the latter bound in French vellum, with back bands and specially designed metal clasps. William Blake's "Songs of Innocence" follows the arrangement of the Pickering edition of 1874, but has been carefully edited and collated with more complete editions. There are only 300 copies printed, twelve on Japan imperial vellum paper from type designed by and cast for Mr. Seymour.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS is publishing an important work on "The Development of European Civilization," by J. Dorsey Forrest, who does not attempt to discover the social ends which are inherent in the nature of modern society, but holds that some such study as he presents is a necessary preliminary to their discovery. They will bring out early in January "A Genetic History of the New England Theology," by Frank Hugh Foster, who gives a thorough history of one of the most interesting theological movements which America has seen—one which seems now to have come to a natural conclusion. Beginning with Jonathan Edwards, a series of original and earnest minds to meet the various issues which arose both in the world of thought and in that of affairs, proposed certain new methods of defending the hereditary Calvinism of New England, which resulted finally in a distinct school of theology. While giving enough of the external history to furnish an account of the occasions and the setting of the various writings, the author is engaged principally upon the history of thought.

THE TRADE DEMANDS THE TRUTH!

At the present time there is being extensively circulated, in all parts of the country, a pamphlet bearing the signature of G. & C. Merriam Co., entitled "The Truth About Certain So-called Webster's Dictionaries," in which they attack Laird & Lee's WEBSTER'S NEW STANDARD DICTIONARY.

MERRIAM CO. FORCE THE ISSUE!

A FEW PERTINENT QUESTIONS:

WHY did you wait until within a few weeks ago before taking steps to interfere with a business that has been built up by hard work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars, if you had any right in the name Webster, after the 1847 copyright expired—seventeen years ago? In view of these facts, is it not a little short of a crime to attempt to crush and drive a competitor out of business after permitting that competitor to advertise and keep the name "Webster" alive before the public for so many years?

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution (nearly 2,000,000 copies) of Laird & Lee's Vest-Pocket Webster Pronouncing Dictionary, published in 1892, nearly fifteen years ago? Did you not know that this was the first ever issued?

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution (over half a million) of Webster's Modern Dictionary, published in 1895 (eleven years ago)? Is it not a fact that you knew that this dictionary was extensively advertised under the name of "Webster"? If so, is it not true, also, that you did not place any special value on the name so long as it did not directly interfere with your school business?

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution of "Grimm-Webster," (German-English and English-German) Dictionary, copyrighted in 1897 (nine years ago)? Was it also because this book was not used in the schools that you placed so little value on the name "Webster"?

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution of "Salva-Webster," (Spanish-English and English-Spanish) Dictionary, copyrighted in 1898 (eight years ago)? It appears that this title also did not attract your attention.

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution of Laird & Lee's "Littré-Webster," (English-French and French-English) Dictionary, published in 1899 (seven years ago), also of The Standard Webster Pocket Dictionary; Laird & Lee's Vest-Pocket "Kaiser" Dictionary, and Laird & Lee's Vest-Pocket Standard (English-Spanish and Spanish-English) Dictionary, (aggregate sales over 200,000)? These dictionaries having been advertised for years in the same mediums used by your company, you, of course, must have known that they were on the market.

WHY did you not take steps to stop the publication and distribution of Webster's New Standard Dictionary, five editions, the first one published in 1903, two sample copies of which were sent direct to the editorial rooms of the American Book Company, per order, October 3d, 1903, presumably for examination, nearly three years before any move was made to prevent their sale, and after twelve distinct dictionaries had been published bearing the name "Webster"?

WHY did you claim that Webster's Handy Dictionary is "From the latest edition of the large dictionary of Noah Webster"? Does it not bear all the ear marks of an English lexicon? Can you account for the similarity between this dictionary and the edition published by the Chicago Tribune in 1886, not copyrighted, illustrations and style of type and size of pages appearing to be almost identical—260 cuts in one and 258 in the other—print evidently pearl type (twenty to thirty years old), so small that it must have ruined the eyes of thousands of children?

WHY did you deviate from the system, followed in all the different editions of your dictionaries, beginning each vocabulary word with a capital, up to Webster's "Little Gem" Dictionary, copyrighted in 1905, in which the capitals are used only where required, a system first adopted by Laird & Lee?

WHY is it that none of the lexicons published by Laird & Lee appealed to you as a menace to the name "Webster" until after Webster's New Standard Dictionary appeared on the market? Is it because this particular edition has proven so popular among educators, the schools, the trade and the public, that you now make your unwarranted attack?

This subject is of vital concern to everyone, therefore the public is entitled to know the truth.

DEALERS Why not encourage competition? Don't you know that Laird & Lee are directly responsible for the increased discount recently allowed on certain "So-called Webster Dictionaries"? DON'T BE DECEIVED.
